Ortel Communications Ltd, the country's first internet service provider (ISP) licenceholder, has repositioned its service to remain competitive in the Orissa market. The company has introduced high-speed bandwidths ranging between 256 kbps for home users and 1 mbps for heavy commercial users.

"With the advent of high-speed broadband [service] and specially with the enhanced bandwidth, net surfing now would be 20 to 25 times faster," Ortel.net vice-president BP Rath said. He added that Ortel has also made upward revision in its free download limits on all schemes. ◆
